Griffin Tells Clubs of Trip

A description of Frank J. Griffin's last summer's visit to "crazy places" which "aren't so uncivilized as some of our so-called 'civilized' countries these days" was highly enjoyed by nearly 50 members of the Lions and Exchange clubs when they met in joint session at Hotel Sequoia Tuesday.

Griffin talked principally of his visit to the penal colony in French Guiana, with its nine prison camps on the mainland, where most of the 7000 inmates are confined, and its three island prisons.

Difficulties he had gaining entrance to the various parts of the colony, and in securing mementos of his trip were described by the Sequoia athletic director. He displayed a number of pictures he took; a painting by a prisoner, and souvenirs gained on his journey.

Griffin declared that only 1 of 400 prisoners fulfills his sentence and returns home as a free man. One of 125 out of the 600 who try to escape each year is successful. Forty per cent of the prisoners die their first year in the colony, he revealed.

Griffin deprecated the idea that regeneration was possible in such a place.

He expressed the belief that a study of the causes of each of the prisoners' difficulties in the French penal colony would be revealing and might go a long way toward providing a solution to crime.

J. A. Buhler, Exchange club vice president, presided at the meeting. Edmund Scott was program chairman. Dr. D. F. Brown, Lions club president, and Perry A. Bygdnes made brief talks.

Experimental Road To Be Built

Redwood City has been selected as the site for a 1500-foot stretch of experimental highway, according to County Engineer U. S. Marshall. Work will begin next Monday, Marshall said, on the new roadway. It will extend from Second avenue to Burlingame on Spring street.

Materials for the pavement will be supplied by the Portland Cement Association, which is seeking to prove the economy of using cement and shale for secondary road construction. The pavement will be six inches thick and will be constructed by the county road crew. Marshall expects to finish the work within a week.

Police Capture Theft Suspects In San Carlos

Two boys who were captured in San Carlos a half hour after a radio call had been sent out warning officers to be on the lookout for them were being held in jail at San Jose today facing charges of grand theft.

The youths, Bill Losketoff and Ralph Lasky, both 18, assertedly forced Edward M. Farmer, of 945 Forest avenue, Palo Alto, art instructor at Stanford University, from his old sedan on the university campus, then fled with the machine.

As they drove north on El Camino Real into San Carlos, Policeman George Kirchner, who had been watching for them from a vantage point at the Southern Pacific station, recognized the car and license number from the description which had been broadcast.

PAIR UNARMED

When the boys turned west on San Carlos avenue, he gave chase, stopping them without difficulty a few blocks away.

The youths, both students at Commerce High School in San Francisco, gave up without a struggle. They were unarmed, according to Police Chief Edward J. Wheeler. The capture had been effected at 4:20 p.m.—a half hour after the broadcast Tuesday afternoon.

Wheeler and Kirchner held the youths until Santa Clara county deputy sheriffs and Police Officer George Burns of Stanford University arrived to take them to San Jose.

There Farmer identified the youths, told police they had hailed him for a ride as he was driving on the Stanford campus. They forced him to drive to a point near Ryan Hall, threatened him with a water bottle and their fists, and pushed him from the sedan, Farmer asserted.

YOUTHS' STORY DIFFERS

The youths' story of the affair differed, however. Young Lasky told officers Farmer tooted his horn at the pair, inducing them to ride into the hills where the artist wished to make a painting of a barn. The boy said he and Losketoff had come to Stanford from their homes in San Francisco to watch the university football team practice.

When Farmer refused to bring them back to the college grounds, Lasky asserted, he and Losketoff tried to force the car owner into his machine. Finally, Lasky told Deputy Sheriff Harry F. Schumann of Santa Clara county, they struck Farmer and started home in his automobile.

Heinze Analyzes Plan to Acquire Electric System

Belief that the City of Redwood City could make a net profit of $52,490 during its first year of operation of the power distribution system of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company if it votes November 2 to take it over was expressed Wednesday by Carl A. Heinze, famed consulting electrical engineer.

In a letter to Mayor Paul A. McCarthy, Heinze, employed by the City of Redwood City early last year in its dealings with the California State Railroad Commission, recommended that the city issue the $575,000 in bonds as proposed by majority members of the city council.

This profit—more than 9 per cent on the investment—would be enough to amortize the bonds, effect a rate reduction, offset any loss of taxes, and have funds left over, under plan of Mayor McCarthy and other majority council members to pay off the bonds in a 20-year period on a sliding scale, beginning at $20,000 the first year and increasing the amount gradually, as the interest payments decrease.

Heinze figures the gross earnings of the power system at $185,000 a year and expenses at $132,510. He lists the expenses as follows: Purchased energy, $77,150; distribution, commercial and general expenses, $28,000; uncollectable bills, $925; insurance, $700; interest on bonds (at 3 per cent), $17,485; provision for depreciation, $8485.

While the bonds to be voted on call for interest to be as much as 4 per cent, city officials believe they can be sold for 3 per cent or less in view of the fact that the harbor bonds sold for 2½ per cent and the 1915 act refunding bonds sold for 2 per cent with the exception of those maturing in the first two years, which sold for 4 per cent.

In making his profit estimate and recommending that the City of Redwood City approve the bond issue as a good business investment, Engineer Heinze pointed out that "it may be a long time before another opportunity will present itself for the people to acquire their own electric system at the low interest rates now prevailing."

This very fact, proponents point out, make the $575,000 total cost reasonable although it had earlier been hoped that the system could be purchased for less than this amount. The $575,000 covers the railroad commission valuation of $488,000; improvements made in the past year and a half totaling an estimated $27,000, and sufficient funds to purchase equipment, build necessary station facilities, and allow a working capital.

Heinze pointed out that his estimated net income of more than $52,000 for the first year "is realized after paying all operating expenses, including the maintenance and operation of the distribution system, operation of the commercial department, and other general expenses, such as the operation of the general office, warehouse, shop and testing laboratory and the maintenance and operation of the necessary automotive equipment, an item for uncollectable bills, and premiums on compensation and liability insurance, provision for depreciation of the physical properties, and interest on the outstanding bonds at the rate of 3 per cent."

He added:

"This showing is very conservative and it is to be expected that, after experience has been gained by the municipality in the operation of the system, the operating expenses shown may be materially reduced. For example, many operations may be consolidated with similar operations of the water department, effecting savings not reflected in the operating expenses shown.

"The statement shows that the net profit resulting from the operation of the system is sufficient to take care of expenditures for all new capital requirements of the distribution system, and still leave a surplus. . . . The amount shown for depreciation will, less replacements made, accumulate as a cash reserve.

"It might also be mentioned that, while the valuation fixed by the commission seems high, some consolation can be taken from the fact that prices on the materials shown in the inventory of physical properties have risen, since the date of their valuation, about 20 per cent.

"There will also accrue to the municipality, should the property be taken over, the accumulation in the depreciation reserve which will act as a credit against the additions and betterments made by the company since the date of the valuation."

HUNDREDS MOBILIZED HERE

Quick Response Given to 'Disaster Call' As Many Watch Demonstration

Many hundreds of trained men and women, units of emergency equipment and an efficient mobilization plan stand ready to protect Redwood City in case of possible fire, earthquake, flood or other disaster.

This was proved again Saturday night as the annual "disaster rehearsal" of fire, police, water and public utility forces, service clubs, lodges, veterans' and humanitarian organizations was called by Mayor Paul A. McCarthy at 7:30 o'clock.

Within one minute from the sound of 27 blasts on the city's fire whistle, the first of the emergency units began parading before the reviewing stand on Broadway just east of Main street, where the mayor, councilmen and other officials gathered with several hundred spectators to witness the demonstration.

The Layng and Tinney ambulance was the first to arrive and report at 7:31. The American Legion post field kitchen with 38 men, the fire department with two engines, two ladder trucks and another truck followed immediately behind.

Before five minutes had passed, Health and Building Inspector I. C. Drathman, the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, three units of the San Mateo County Fire Department, seven trucks of the Redwood City water and streets departments, Postmaster R. E. O'Connell Jr. and the American Red Cross headed by Mrs. Z. T. Thorning had responded.

Meanwhile, as the impressive parade progressed, the United States Naval Reserve Corps transmitted messages by short-wave radio to neighboring cities, including San Carlos, Menlo Park and Atherton.

Within another few minutes reports came in from representatives of the Lions, Exchange and Kiwanis Clubs, the Redwood City Humane Society, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, other veterans' groups and their auxiliaries, the Eagles lodge and other groups that were ready for service.

Shortly after 8 p.m. the Menlo Park and San Carlos Fire Departments reported in.

Belying the "disaster spirit" was the newly-organized Redwood City Municipal Band, under direction of Dr. R. Lee Otis, which accompanied the rehearsal with music.

Exciting features of the program were the ladder-raising, rescue and fire-net jumping exhibitions by the fire department under charge of Chief Mark E. Ryan.

As the relief units arrived one by one, Mayor McCarthy greeted them over the public address system and accompanied the show with a running commentary.

Following the demonstration, approximately 500 persons attended the annual firemen's ball held at Forester's Hall, where Lamb's orchestra provided music until the early hours of the morning.

An estimated $400 was raised by the dance, the proceeds to be used for purchase of uniforms for call men in the fire department, Chief Ryan announced today. He said $200 probably would be spent almost immediately for new uniforms.

WHO IS THIS MAN WHO SEES POWER PROFITS?

Who is this man Carl A. Heinze who submitted an estimate to Mayor Paul A. McCarthy of what he believes the P. G. & E.'s power distribution system would earn if operated by the City of Redwood City?

Why is he qualified to make such an estimate?

Heinze is a Los Angeles consulting engineer and one of the best known engineers on the Pacific Coast in the utility operation field. He was employed a year and a half ago by the Redwood City City Council as an engineer specially qualified in the appraisal and valuation of electrical properties to testify before the California State Railroad Commission as to the value of property described in the city's application to take over the power system.

A graduate civil engineer from the University of Southern California, with specialties in mathematics, physics and electrical engineering, Heinze has been in active utility practice since 1902. He is Fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

On his shoulders rested the responsibility for the entire generating and distributing facilities of the Los Angeles Bureau of Water and Power. He designed plans and specifications for electrical systems in Vernon, Glendale, Palo Alto and Tijuana, Mexico. He has been an expert before the California Railroad Commission on numerous occasions in cases involving rates and valuations.

Between 1902 and 1906 he was in private practice, employed on railway and hydro-electric projects in Los Angeles, and from 1906 to 1930 was employed by the City of Los Angeles with the exception of the two years he was a major of engineers with the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

For years he has engaged in the construction of electrical transmission lines, telephone lines and hydro-electric generating plants. While chief operator of the Los Angeles system he designed and constructed waterways, transmission lines and electrical equipment in the vast Los Angeles system.

HANDLED HUGE PROJECT

In 1915 he was in charge of the design and construction of office buildings, substations, warehouses, garages, underground and overhead systems of transmission lines involving the expenditure of more than $38,000,000 for Los Angeles and providing facilities for the distribution of more than 250,000 horsepower of electrical energy.

In 1928 he was the assistant chief engineer and assistant general manager of the widespread Los Angeles Bureau of Water and Power. During 1920 and 1922 he fixed values for the electrical distribution system of the Southern California Edison Company resulting in their sale to Los Angeles for $12,500,000.

SUPERVISED VERNON PLANT

Between 1930 and 1933 he designed and constructed the electrical generation system of Vernon, costing $3,500,000, and also had charge of plans and specifications for the complete mechanical and electrical layout of the Mono Basin project of the Los Angeles acqueduct, involving an expenditure of $8,500,000.

He was chief of inventory and valuation in gas rate cases brought by the City of Los Angeles against the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and has appeared in rates cases involving wholesale and retail rates in Los Angeles and in San Francisco against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and the Great Western Power Company.

More recently he has represented the League of California Municipalities in the fixing of the valuation of operating properties of all of the publicly-owned public utilities in the state by the state board of equalization for local tax purposes.

F. R. Planning Area Proposal Favored

President Roosevelt's plan to divide the country into seven regional planning areas, outlined in his radio fireside chat Tuesday, won the hearty approval of County Planning Adviser Ronald Campbell Wednesday.

"The system should do much to coordinate planning agencies," Campbell said. "Local communities seldom fix their sights high enough to consider their particular projects in relation to the development of the area, and a clearing house which can supply valuable technical advice would be of great assistance."

Campbell revealed that the president's plan is already in operation, and that only a few days remain in which to turn in projects suitable for the list to be submitted to the president January 1, 1938.

The San Mateo County planning board has been advised to submit its projects to the state board before next Monday. According to L. Deming Tilton, state administrative planning officer, the states will submit approved projects to the "basin committees" which will comprise the seven national areas.

Campbell indicated that beach erosion control on the San Mateo county coastside, and erection of a breakwater at Half Moon Bay may be submitted by this county. It is possible that the county may submit sewage disposal projects, he said.

Projects of the following types, according to Campbell, are eligible: Water storage and distribution; water treatment plants; sewage disposal or reclamation; beach erosion; navigation and harbor development; watershed protection; water fowl refuges; power development, and flood control.

The San Mateo County Planning Commission will meet at 2 p.m. Friday at the courthouse.

Spanish Hospital Ward Goal of Group

Redwood City and Palo Alto members of the Peninsula Committee of the Medical Bureau to Aid Spanish Democracy were beginning a movement today which they hope will result in a ward being provided in a completely equipped hospital unit to be sent to Spain.

The committee was organized last Friday at a meeting at the home of Stanford Professor H. C. Brown. Dr. T. A. Addis of the Stanford Lane Medical School explained the need in Spain for medical supplies and told of the nationwide medical bureau to supply doctors, nurses and equipment.

The west coast is now cooperating to equip the unit, to be directed by Dr. Leo Eloesser of San Francisco.

Officers elected are Professor Max Savelle of Stanford, chairman; Mrs. Harold Eisenberg, vice chairman; Mrs. Clive Warner, secretary-treasurer. In Redwood City the committee consists of Dr. Freda Meyerfeld, chairman; Carl Anderson and Mrs. Robert Klein. Sponsors include Dr. Russell V. Lee, Judge Jackson Ralston, Mrs. David Starr Jordan, Mrs. J. E. Coover, Mrs. F. B. Duveneck, Professors H. C. Brown, E. M. Hulme, H. H. Fisher and B. O. Foster.

2 County Men On Commission

One of the major tasks confronting the California Commission for the Golden Gate International Exposition, which met in San Francisco Monday, is to secure sufficient funds to complete the agricultural pavilion at Visitacion Valley in time for the fair opening. James B. Howell of Atherton and Frederick Peterson of Burlingame represented San Mateo county at the meeting.

The commission, composed of 19 members, adopted by-laws, organized into sub-committees and decided to appoint a general manager at the session scheduled for October 20.

When appointed, the general manager will administer the $5,000,000 appropriation made by the state, and will have charge of all sub-committees, according to F. M. McAuliffe, permanent chairman of the commission.

"So many applications have been received for general manager that I'm about ready to leave town," McAuliffe laughingly told commission members yesterday. Civil service rules do not apply to the appointment.

Selection of an office and assigning of duties to various committees will be accomplished at the October 20 meeting, it was stated.

"The livestock people hope to get enough money from this state fund to complete the agricultural pavilion at Visitacion in time for the fair opening," McAuliffe said.

Farley to Visit Here Next Week

Postmaster General James A. Farley, after speaking in San Francisco next Tuesday, October 19, at the postmasters' convention, will visit several peninsula cities on his way to Monterey, Postmaster R. E. O'Connell Jr. was advised Monday by Ambrose O'Connell, executive assistant to Farley.

The postoffice official's first stop will be at Burlingame. Leaving there at 11:15 he will go to San Mateo. From that city, which he will leave at 11:30, Farley will go to San Carlos, leaving there at 11:40.

He then will visit the Redwood City postoffice, planning to leave here at 11:50, going to Palo Alto.

At each place, Farley will make a brief inspection of the postoffice and meet employes and residents of the city. Postmaster O'Connell plans a reception for Farley in Redwood City.

$25,000 DAMAGES ASKED

Because he suffered finger lacerations, shock and injury to the nervous system, and body bruises & contusions, Adolphe Poret Tuesday filed suit in the superior court here seeking to recover $25,000 damages from Oliver Harrison and W. M. Amerine. Poret alleges that on August 24 he was driving west on Geneva avenue, Bayshore City, into the Bayshore Highway intersection when he was struck by a truck driven by the defendants.

Garage Walkout Is Ended Quickly

PALO ALTO, Oct. 12—A walkout which had forced closing of 7 of the 24 local garages yesterday was ended quietly today by agreement between the garagemen and striking members of the Garage Employes' Union, Local 556.

Pickets who had surrounded the seven garages were withdrawn pending negotiations between the two parties. Interested parties said they hoped to reach an agreement by next Monday.

The dispute centers on wage and hour demands made by the union on behalf of lubricators, car washers, polishers and combination men. While only these craftsmen walked out, mechanics refused to pass the picket lines, so that shop activity was entirely suspended in the garages affected.

Board to Meet In Mornings

The board of supervisors' meeting time, changed by amendment several months ago to Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, will be shifted to 11 o'clock in the morning, it was announced Tuesday by Board Chairman Hugh H. Smith.

The move is in answer to requests made by the county press association that the meeting hour be changed to permit complete coverage of the supervisor session in Wednesday afternoon papers. This was not possible when the supervisors convened at 1 o'clock.

Under the plan, which will not go into effect until the supervisors have formally voted an amendment to their procedure ordinance and the necessary 30 days has passed for the ordinance to become law, the board will meet at 11 o'clock on their regular Wednesday meeting days and work right through the lunch hour, hoping to complete their agenda by 1 o'clock.

If this is not possible, Smith said, the supervisors would then adjourn for lunch and return afterwards to finish agenda matters.

"Nine times out of 10, however," Smith declared, "we expect to have everything finished by 1 p.m."

The hour change will be favorable both to the daily newspapers in the county and the weeklies.

CACHE OF ACORNS FOUND

Discovery of a woodpecker's cache was the surprise that greeted Elmer Reeves, roofer. While making current roof repairs on the Woodside church, Reeves found 75 pounds of acorns carefully piled in the belfry, presumably by some thrifty woodpecker, he said.

Many Over 65 Fail To Seek Pensions

Hundreds of persons who have reached age 65 since January 1, 1937, have failed to apply for old age security benefits, according to regional representatives of the Federal Government's Social Security Board, who began a three-day session in San Francisco yesterday. Some 3000 claims have been paid on the Pacific coast, it was revealed, but many claims remain unfiled.

Numerous persons who have made payments have died and no claims have been filed by their estates, it was pointed out.

Some of the most skilfully made arrowheads found in the United States recently were unearthed in San Diego county.

Hollywood Re-creates Mysterious Tibet!

Thousands Work for Year, Millions Spent To Build Fantastic City of Shangri-La

TO bring Tibet to Hollywood; to present in living reality the ancient civilization of a land which has remained, throughout world history, inviolate in its mountain fastnesses—was Frank Capra's task in bringing to the screen James Hilton's novel, "Lost Horizon."

Hollywood—and Capra—are used to challenges. The problem of crystallizing dream into tangibility is an every-day af fair in the cinema capital of the world. But the challenge of Hilton's "Lost Horizon" presented problems which might have given pause even to Capra. For here was a land of mystery, shrouded by drifting mist and driving snow; a challenge of an author's idealism which required, in its meeting, not only the most patient and far-reaching of research, the utmost in technical skill and resourcefulness, but a high order of creative imagination.

Right, Jane Wyatt and Ronald Colman, two souls from the end of the earth who find love in the eternal beauty of this Tibetan dream-world.

A Year in the Making

More then a year of intensive work went into the making of "Lost Horizon." With the author himself on the ground to bring his own knowledge and enthusiasm to the making of the film; with Columbia resolved that the production must be as perfect as skill could make it; with Robert Riskin as scenarist, and Harrison Forman, American explorer and authority on Tibet, engaged as technical adviser, it was inevitable that "Lost Horizon" would succeed on its daring venture.

With the story completed, research in the technical problems of the film could go forward. Forman had brought with him from Tibet a bewildering assortment of articles, varying as widely as wigs with 108 separate braids of long hair, drums made from the halves of two human skulls, and primitive swords, spears and firearms—muzzle-loaders exploded in a flashpan ignited by a wick.

Authentic Costumes Reproduced

Lama costumes, the everyday, holiday and ceremonial costumes of Tibetan peasants, the implements of primitive farming and handicraft and day-to-day living of this far-away and archaic civilization of the roof-top of the world, had all come in the crates and boxes and trunks stamped with the exotic lettering of Tibet.

Bucket-hoops of native silver, studded with coral and turquoise, gold and silver charm-boxes, bracelets and necklaces heavy with clumped masses of gems, a sorcerer's trumpet made from a human thigh-bone—these were only a few of the items of Tibetan booty brought by Forman from Tibet. There were, too, in Forman's possession, innumerable photographs of life as it is lived in Tibet, innumerable notebooks filled with scrawled data of needed details.

Search through the properties of Hollywood's costume companies failed to reveal anything that even remotely approximated duplication of these costumes and properties. Capra called in the property men and assigned to them the task of creating what was needed. A special department of ten expert property makers was installed in the studio, to fashion the more than 700 unique props.

Magical Shangri-La Is Born

In the meantime, Stephen Goosson, art director of Columbia studios, with his assistants, Lionel Banks and Paul Murphy, was at work creating the magical backgrounds for "Lost Horizon." The lamasery of "Shangri-La, that stronghold of the best that man's mind and spirit have brought forth of beauty and art; the Valley of the Blue Moon, in which, under the beneficent dominance of the lamas, lived the Tibetan peasants of this harmonious world—these were two of the major assignments of Goosson and his staff of artists.

Scale models, complete to the minutest detail, were made of the lamasery of Shangri-La—this lamasery which, upon its completion on the Columbia lot, measured one thousand feet long and almost five hundred feet wide, one of the largest and most elaborate sets ever built in Hollywood. While these sets were being created, costume impressions of lamas and peasants were being painted by the facile brush of Dan Grossbeck, the distinguished illustrator.

Hundreds Work On Set

Actual work on the Shangri-La set took one hundred and fifty workmen two months to complete. With its background of piled, dark peaks, overwhelming in their snow-covered majesty, the lamasery is presented, in Hilton's own words, as hanging upon the mountain side "with the chance delicacy of flower petals impaled upon a crag."

"It was superb and exquisite," Hilton wrote. "An austere emotion carried the eye upward from milk-blue roofs to a gray rock bastion above, tremendous as a Wetterhorn above Grindelwald. Beyond that, in a dazzling pyramid, soared the snow slopes of Karakal. It might well be, Conway thought, the most terrifying mountainscape in the world."

And so here stands Shangri-La! The delicate pavilions are reached by soaring flights of shallow marble stairways, and stand surrounded by rambling gardens of luxuriant foliage, with sparkling lily-covered pools, fountains, and flower-filled terraces. Two hundred doves were oriented to the garden, that their peaceful comings and goings might add to the harmony of the scene.

The interior sets of Shangri-La match the exterior in the size and splendor of their scale. The quarters of the High Lama are strikingly beautiful. The library, music rooms, bedrooms and gigantic hallways and staircases all combine to match the picture of a palace inconceivably lovely and luxurious. The dining-room, for instance, is almost weirdly beautiful, with walls of creamy parchment, sewed together with strips of rawhide, intricately interwoven. Furniture, hangings, table appointments, each makes its own contribution to the ensemble of dignity and richness.

Valley of the Blue Moon

Even the lamasery was not, of course, sufficient to give the whole picture of Hilton's dream world. It was necessary to bring forth for camera reproduction the Valley of the Blue Moon, the downward prospect to be seen from the serene plateau heights of Shangri-La. Sherwood Forest, about forty miles from Hollywood, was chosen as the perfect realization on earth of the happy valley.

Director Frank Capra in a characteristic pose during production of "Lost Horizon." His is the genius that met Hilton's great challenge—and brought Tibet to Hollywood!

It was a real stroke of luck for Capra that Sherwood Forest was so near Hollywood. Secluded as it is, it carried the atmosphere of isolation implicit in Hilton's description. Important features were a natural basin which could be transformed into an artificial lake, and certain flattened heights which have the aspect of Tibetan plateauland. A rigid policing system to keep airplanes from zooming into the picture was required. Here, surrounding the artificial lake, there arose a complete Tibetan village. Primitive houses, crude picturesque bridges, chortens or mausoleums that hold the sacred ashes of departed lamas, thousands of orchids in bloom—these and innumerable other characteristic details of the forbidden country nestling in the Asiatic eaves of the world, helped to make up this rare panorama.

Mushroom City Springs Up

The setting fulfilled every possible technical and artistic demand—all but one. That was how to take care of a company of three hundred and fifty men, women and children, with scores of camels, horses, pigs, cows, and other living things that comprise the populace of a primitive settlement. And so a complete young city, with living shacks, mess-hall, hospital, recreation rooms, dark rooms for cameramen, property rooms, dressing rooms, and other necessary shelters were erected, just outside of camera lines—one of the most complete mushroom cities that ever sprang into being.

Seek Tibetan Types

It is in this idyllic country that hundreds of Tibetan types will be seen in the picture, following their happy existence, farming, spinning, weaving, practicing their primitive handicrafts. The difficulty of the casting problems encountered may be inferred from the fact that not a single Tibetan has ever been known to take out a passport for America. Capra and Forman interviewed literally hundreds of hopeful extras of every possible ethnic type, before finding any which approximated the Tibetan racial characteristics.

New Stars Created

Though the Tibetan types were eventually found, Capra had many problems in casting the major roles. Ronald Colman inevitably became the star of the production. H. B. Warner and Edward Everett Horton perfectly filled the roles of Chang, a lama, and Lovett, the fussy paleontologist. But in assigning his other important roles Capra reversed his usual formula. He drew not upon the ranks of distinguished players, but upon those of the young, untried stars-to-be—those who show brilliant promise of taking their places among the great names of the screen. Jane Wyatt, John Howard, Isabel Jewell, Margo, Thomas Mitchell, Sam Jaffe—these were the personalities Capra enlisted. Each has now achieved brilliantly on the screen, in "Lost Horizon" and other roles, paying deserved tribute to Capra's near-infallible judgement of their abilities and faith in their promise.

Thus Capra has achieved perfection by a series of perfections, great and small—perfection in casting, perfection in backgrounds, setting, props. As in his creation of the mystery of Shangri-La, Capra has met the challenge of "Lost Horizon"—but after all, that's Capra.

MENLO PARK NEWS

During her inspiring talk she stressed membership as being the most important issue, and also urged all who could do so to attend the school of instruction in Alameda October 18.

Past President Sarah Moore, who presided in the absence of Junior Past President Dora Devol, gave a brief resume of her former association with Past National President Hahn, whom Mrs. Moore knew when she served the American Legion Auxiliary in Montana.

Isabelle Weeden Lindquist gave a report on the 26th district meeting held in Redwood City last week.

President Clarissa Ross presided at the meeting. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess committee, including Clarissa Ross, Isabelle Lindquist and Elizabeth Lyon.

Last Monday evening 21 local business men met at the city hall for the purpose of organizing a community "Boosters' Club." Mrs. E. Harms acted as secretary pro tem, and a committee was appointed to report at the next meeting Monday evening.

Object of the organization is to secure the assistance of all business men in the town to advance the welfare of the city in business and social affairs.

Sixty acres of the Flood estate fronting on the Bay road was sold last week to a Redwood City man. The purchase includes the large stable erected in the '60s by the late John Sullivan, a pioneer who came from Missouri with the Murphys of Santa Clara.

Miss Murphy was married last week in San Francisco. She was related to the late Senator Phelan.

The late Edgar Mills, who resided here many years ago, was an uncle of Odgen Mills, who passed away this week in New York. As a boy, Ogden Mills often visited his relative here. In the '80s Mills purchased the property now owned by the Menlo Park Military Academy and Miss E. Noel.

He also purchased a strip of land across the way on Oak Grove avenue, which he later subdivided and sold. It is now the residential section of Menlo Park. Mills avenue, in the tract, was named for him.

Mills' eldest son met a tragic death at an eastern college, an incident which embittered the last years of Edgar Mills' life. The young man was brilliant and gave promise of a bright career. He had all the cleverness and brilliancy of his uncle.

Dr. M. W. Forsythe, member of the University of California dental college faculty, has taken an apartment at 1075 El Camino Real, Menlo Park. His home is in Williams.

Mrs. Carroll A. Devol and Mrs. Peter Bush attended the sessions of the American Red Cross in San Francisco this week.

Last week a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Carter. The latter is chief of the Atherton branch of the Menlo Park fire department.

Theodore Morris, the tailor, has moved to Redwood City. He had been here for eight years, and enjoyed a lucrative business.

Past presidents of the Native Daughters of the Golden West will hold a meeting this evening at Central School in honor of the grand president, Mrs. Edith Sampson. A reception and banquet will follow the routine business. Mrs. Frances Maloney is a state director of the organization.

The state highway commission has taken an option on the J. Ohminus property at the corner of Oak Grove avenue and the highway. Other options will be secured by the commission for rights-of-way to widen the highway through town. Work on the project will begin next week.

In England a billion is a million million instead of a thousand million as in the United States and France.

There are three types of mahogany—West Indian, tropical American and African. The first is ordinarily considered the best.

Legion Post Favors Community Chest

Adjutant Millard W. Berry of Redwood City Post 105, American Legion, announced Wednesday the organization had gone on record as being in favor of establishment of a Community Chest in Redwood City to supplant the several campaign drives now conducted. Named as a committee to meet with similar representatives from other organizations at Central Grammar School next Monday at 8 p.m. to discuss formation of a chest were Rev. W. J. Owen, Rev. Schuyler Pratt, Duncan Reynard and Floyd Granger.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Action Slated At Later Date

Two knotty set-back problems faced the Redwood City Planning Commission Monday, then were deferred until later meetings.

Only action taken was preliminary to granting Sam Dietrich permission to construct a new service station at the corner of Hopkins avenue and El Camino Real on Southern Pacific property. Formal granting of the permit will be made two weeks hence, Chairman Henry Witte said.

Also delayed two weeks following a heated discussion between John E. McCarthy, owner of property on Harrison avenue, and neighboring property owners, was any decision on creating new set-back lines on McCarthy's frontage between Clinton and Duane streets.

The set-backs on the James avenue extension between El Camino Real and the Southern Pacific depot will be taken up in four weeks, Witte said.

Toastmasters Select Delegate, Hear Talks

Members of the Toastmasters' club Monday elected B. E. Myers as delegate to the district organization, then heard five practice speeches on a variety of subjects, with J. A. Buhler as chairman.

Duncan Reynard spoke of the need for state police; Louis McAtee, in a talk titled "Keep Pitching," paid tribute to Columbus and told how his principles could be applied today; Earl Whitaker in a talk titled "Let's Continue to Grow" urged that a new public library be provided here; Mark Nesbit told of his new automobile under the title of "My Latest Investment," and Louis B. Dematteis told of "The Threat of Marijuana."

With James P. Hagan as chairman, speakers next week will be Donald Bogie, Cuthbert Currie, William Morrissey, Clifford Walk and L. E. Wolbert.

$100,000 Fund To Be Sought

Monsignor Thomas F. Millett, pastor of St. Catherine's Catholic Church, Burlingame, Tuesday announced that during the first week in November parishioners will participate in a campaign to raise funds for the erection of a parochial school and auditorium.

Monsignor Millett said a goal of $100,000 has been set for the campaign which will provide an eight-room school, including kindergarten, an auditorium and playground. The structures will be built on parish property on the corner of Bayswater avenue and Park road. St. Catherine's parish, in point of membership, is one of the most important in the San Francisco archdiocese but for 30 years has been without educational facilities. Monsignor Millett said that more than 200 parish children now are enrolled in various schools in the Burlingame neighborhood. It is planned, he said, to build the school and auditorium in time for the opening of the 1938 fall term.

Plans for perfecting a general campaign organization practically are completed and will include a general chairman, a central committee and a group headed by generals and colonels who will command team organizations. Monsignor Millett said that approximately 200 parishioners have been asked to participate in the fund drive. Preparations are being made for a pledge-taking rather than a cash-collecting fund drive. Solicitations will get under way November 4 and will be carried on intensively until November 19.

Nevada is the only state that does not levy an inheritance tax.

WATER SYSTEM FLUSHING SET FOR OCT. 25TH

Several billions of infinitely tiny iron bacteria are going to have a mighty tough time keeping alive in Redwood City's water mains after October 25.

These harmless but troublesome microbes that grow and multiply in the city's system will be subjected to what City Manager C. L. Dimmitt expects will be a fatal attack of chlorine and ammonia.

The cleaning-out process is to be done in cooperation with purification engineers of the San Francisco Water Department, from which Redwood City purchases two-thirds of its water supply.

Each morning starting October 25 some section of the water system will be filled shortly after midnight with the powerful gases, which will be allowed to settle and complete their deadly work until 4 a.m. when the mains will be flushed.

Residents in the district affected are to be warned to let the chlorinated water run from their pipes the morning after.

The bacteria, which cause discoloration and a slight odor in the water, originally came into the local mains from the Hetch Hetchy system. However, since the Hetch Hetchy lately has rid itself of them, Manager Dimmitt feels that use of a similar process here will end the trouble for all time.
